

SYMPHONY IN THE
FLINT  HILLS

OUR MISSION

Is to heighten appreciation and knowledge of the Flint Hills tallgrass prairie. Only 4% of the tallgrass prairie that once covered much of the central United States remains.

“The Flint Hills don’t take your breath away, the Flint Hills give you a chance to catch your breath.”

– Jim Hoy, Director of The Center for Great Plains Studies

OUR STORY

Symphony in the Flint Hills is globally recognized for its awe-inspiring Signature Event each June, when 7,000 revelers from all walks of life find common ground while celebrating the prairie landscape through music, art, and storytelling. But we're more than a one-trick pony. We invite you to learn more about our organization – and ways you can join us in protecting the world's last stand of tallgrass prairie.
